Eligibility and Selection Criteria

- The entry shall be the author’s/authors’ first or second book in the category of Primary (ages preschool–8), Intermediate (ages 9–13), or Young Adult (ages 14–17).
- Books from all countries and published in English for the first time during the 2021 calendar year will be considered.
- This award is intended for newly published authors who show unusual promise in the children’s and young adults’ book fields.
- Both fiction and nonfiction books are eligible; each will be rated according to characteristics that are specifically appropriate to the genre.
- The awarded book should serve as a reading and literary standard by which readers can measure other books.
- If appropriate to the genre, the awarded book should provide believable and intriguing characters growing naturally out of the events and actions in the text. Nonfiction books should exhibit excellence in the areas of authority and accuracy, organization, design, and writing style.
- The awarded book should be truthful and authentic in its presentation of information and attitudes as they exist(ed) at the time and place in which the story reflects.
- The awarded book should encourage young readers to read by providing them with something they will delight in and/or profit from by reading.
- If the award-winning book is the first or second book of the illustrator, then the author and illustrator share the award. In all other cases, the author will receive the full award.
- A book may be entered into the award competition by either its publisher or author (submission deadline November 1, 2021). One copy of each book submitted must reach each of the designated ILA Children’s and Young Adults’ Book Awards subcommittee members by November 12, 2021.
- If the committee recommends finalists, their names will be published on ILA’s website and in Literacy Today, ILA’s member magazine, in the July/August/September issue. Winners will be acknowledged at the 2022 Children’s Literature Intensive or an equivalent event.
